FRIDAY EVENING, FEBR'Y. 23.

A PLUCKY ARTIST .- Martin, the celebrated lion tamer, while staying at Ghent, in 1825, noticed among the most constant attendants at his mensgerie a young artist. Martin yearned toward him, and the two became intimate. One day the artist, while taking the portrait of a noble lion, called Nero, complained bitterly that the bars of the cage were in the way. "Donot let that be any obstacle," said Martin, "if you will come with me into Nero's apartment and allow me to introduce you, I can answer for it that he will show how flattered he is by a visit from so excellent an artist, and will give you every facility for handing down his features to posterity." The artist jumped at the effer; and Martin, who was not the man to lose an opportunity of advertising himself, sent word to the Duke of Saxe-Weimar, Governor of Ghent, and to other nobilities, that he would on a given day go into Nero's cage and take "an ameteur stranger" with him. The Duke did not fail to put in an appearance; the very plucky pair walked into the cage, and Nero was at first inclined to be what is called nasty. But reassured by his master's voice, the lion went and lay down in a corner, and the painter sitting down opposite, coolly proceeded to—cut his pencil. Having performed this little preliminary to his satisfaction, he executed a sketch of Nero which was pronounced to be very like. The "dompteur" and the painter then took a polite leave of the lion; and the Duke, having complimented the artist on the pluck as well as talent displayed, would fain have purchased the sketch. But it was not to be had for money, and the artist kept it himself. His name was Verboeck-hoven, afterward famous as a Belgian animal painter. How much of his success he owed to his daring feat there is no telling, but it very likely gave him the start which talent re-

PAINT, of several colors, the body of which is equal to Lead and Oil, which for tin roofs, barns, stables, fences, &c., will be found very suitable as well as economical, and an improvement over other cheap mixed Paints now in the market. For brick walls with a northern exposure it will act as a preventive to dampness.

For iron it makes a solid and lasting coating, impervious to moisure and a preventive of rust. Being of various shades of color, the cornice and trimmings can be painted to suit. This Paint has been used by one railroad company and by many of the farmers in this vicinity, and is highly recommended by all who have tried it. Price, single gallon, 75c. 10 gallons the per gal. 1877. THE ALEXANDRIA GAZETTE and VIRGINIA ADVERTISER, already read by three generations, proposes to continue its useful life, and now enters into another volume.

Virginia,

Never have the times demanded more than now sound, thoughtful journalism. Seldom have the people had deeper interests at stake. Never did the events of the hour, as they unfold themselves, surpass in personal interest to every citizen those which are now transpiring. Never has the importance of early, authentic intelligence of public matters been of greater importance to every one.

To meet this new era in journalism, the Ga-ZETTE will put forth its utmost endesvor, and its success during this entire century in catering to the wants and meeting the wishes of the pasple, guarantees that with this paper promise means performance.

Washington a now the point to which a eyes look and all ears are directed. Almost a the base of the Capital, and yet in a Virginia town, smid a community which has proved its faithfulness to Virginia in more than one flery trial; surrounded by the traditions and hopes of the Commonwealth, the GAZETTE has a position unique among journals and promises to be worthy of it. Its contiguity to Washington gives it an early precedence over all the journals of the State in intelligence of the operations of the General Government, now of such vital and portance to the people of the South. The proceedings of Congress, seldom so interesting as now, will be regularly reported in succinctions for its columns, but all matters of especial inter est in Virginia will be given in detail. I'm gentlemen connected with the paper states stantly at the Federal capital, and the Westington news of the Gazette has for a long to been the fountain of Washington news lot to State.
